1 Thessalonians 5:16-18

1. Oftentimes, considering the phrase “the will of God” makes us think Either of God’s sovereign predestining all things or of our prescribed response to life, given to us by Him. What do you think of when you hear “the will of God” and why?
2. What is joy? How should it look in a believer’s life? Share an example from your own life.
3. Is prayer without ceasing realistic? If so, what does it look like? If not, why does it exist in the sermon text?
4. Name some things in your life for which you gave thanks of Thursday.
5. Should the giving of thanks be a personal thing? What might make you say 'yes'? What might make you say ‘no’?
6. In Sunday’s sermon, Peter said, “These three things from 1 Thessalonians 5:16-18 are to capture the believer’s heart toward God while on his Kingdom mission.” What does that look like at Southwood, in Huntsville, and beyond?
