

1.) Is love a feeling, a commitment, an action? How would you describe it? How does the love of God help define the reality of what love is?

2.) When you consider Christmas and the Word becoming flesh, what aspect of God's love for you in that is most overwhelming?

3.) Will said, "God calls us to love – to give sacrificially, to show up in the pain to give of ourselves, and consistently be there for relationship … to love like God." What is hardest about that calling for you? Who (no matter how unlovely!) needs to experience this kind of love from you?
